

Do NOT change Wisconsin's no-call list. Bankers and credit institutions should not be permitted to bombard previous customers with incessant phone calls just because we have previously done business with them. Our state's law permits them one call to attempt to change our minds, but we shouldn't have to be hounded for 18 months just because we've closed an account.